A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO THE MODERNIZATION OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

PART I

SECTION 1. The legislature finds that there is an urgent need to comprehensively reform and modernize the State's criminal justice system. Though there have been valiant efforts during the last decade to reform the criminal justice system, these reforms have not been thorough enough to end the State's practice of mass incarceration.

The legislature also finds that House Concurrent Resolution No. 134 was passed during the Regular Session of 2017 to establish a task force to recommend reforms to Hawaii's criminal pretrial practices and procedures. The task force submitted its final report to the legislature prior to the Regular Session of 2019, and the legislature subsequently enacted Act 179, Session Laws of Hawaii 2019, to formalize many of the task force's recommendations. The intent of Act 179 was to maximize public safety while protecting state and federal constitutional principles regarding the presumption of innocence, liberty, and the right to non-excessive bail, while also reducing the State's jail population and lowering costs throughout the judicial system.

However, the legislature also finds that Act 179, Session Laws of Hawaii 2019, failed to substantially reduce the State's pretrial detained population, despite that law's reforms. In fact, major changes in the State's jail population did not occur until the judiciary took collaborative action in response to the coronavirus disease 2019 pandemic; however, the Hawaii correctional system oversight commission has found that this reduction was largely due to a reduction in the non-pretrial detainee population and that the pretrial detainee population has remained constant or increased. This data indicates the need to revisit pretrial reform efforts with a more aggressive approach.

The legislature further finds that Act 179, Session Laws of Hawaii 2019, did not incorporate two key recommendations of the House Concurrent Resolution No. 134 task force. Recommendation number 20 would have nearly eliminated the use of monetary bail for low-level, non-violent offenses except for exceptional cases for individuals having a history of non-appearance or violence.
Recommendation number 21 would have created, in cases of non-serious felony offenses, a rebuttable presumption in favor of release under the "lease restrictive conditions" necessary to ensure appearance and public safety. Under this construction, defendants would only be detained if there were clear and convincing evidence of a serious risk that the defendant would flee, obstruct justice, tamper with a witness, endanger themself or another, or engage in illegal activity. Recommendation 21 would also have established a rebuttable presumption that such a serious risk would exist if the defendant had a previous conviction for a crime of violence or if the defendant was already pending trial or sentencing or was on probation or parole for a crime of violence at the time of arrest. Only if a defendant presented a serious risk of non-appearance or danger and when no condition or combination of conditions would reasonably eliminate or mitigate those risks would detention be appropriate under these proposals.

The Hawaii correctional system oversight commission's 2020 annual report urged the legislature to revisit pretrial reform efforts to reduce unnecessary, costly, and dangerous pretrial incarceration by enacting recommendations 20 and 21 of the House
Concurrent Resolution No. 134 task force. The commission also recommended that the legislature enact two additional reforms: one that would establish a list of conditions that would exclude an individual from the proposed process favoring release on a person's own recognizance, and another that would authorize the director of public safety to release a defendant if the defendant were unable to post a bail amount of $99 or less. The legislature concurs with these recommendations of the Hawaii correctional system oversight commission.

Finally, the legislature finds that in order to adequately address jail and prison overcrowding and ensure that the State's criminal justice system is effectively rehabilitating inmates, the State must also examine other aspects of the criminal justice system beyond pretrial procedures. Specifically, the legislature finds that the State must scrutinize the Hawaii penal code, which is the fundamental document by which the State addresses crime, in a full and deliberative manner to ensure that the code remains effective in achieving the objectives of the State's criminal justice system.

Accordingly, the purpose of this Act is to modernize the State's criminal justice system by:
(1) With certain exceptions, eliminating the use of monetary bail and requiring defendants to be released on their own recognizance for traffic offenses, violations, non-violent petty misdemeanor offenses, and non-violent misdemeanor offenses;

(2) Creating a rebuttable presumption regarding both release and detention for certain offenses and to specify the circumstances in which these presumptions apply; and

(3) Requiring the judicial council to appoint a committee to review the Hawaii penal code and recommend to the legislature revisions to the code that the committee concludes are fair and proportionate to the crime committed, with particular attention to:

(A) Whether mandatory sentencing provisions, particularly those for repeat offenders, should remain incorporated in the Hawaii Penal Code;

(B) Whether certain drug offenses should be decriminalized; and
(C) Additional sentencing options and alternatives that the committee concludes will aid in the enforcement of the Hawaii Penal Code.

PART II

SECTION 2. Chapter 804, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is amended by adding a new section to part I to be appropriately designated and to read as follows:

§804- Monetary bail; non-violent offenders. (a) Any defendant arrested and charged with a traffic offense, a violation, a non-violent petty misdemeanor offense, or a non-violent misdemeanor offense shall be released on the defendant's own recognizance conditioned upon:

(1) The defendant's appearance in court; and

(2) Any other least restrictive, non-financial condition necessary to:

(A) Ensure the defendant's appearance in court; and

(B) Protect the public.

(b) This section shall not apply if:

(1) The offense involves:

(A) Assault;

(B) Terroristic threatening;
(C) Sexual assault;
(D) Abuse of a family or household member;
(E) Violation of a temporary restraining order;
(F) Violation of an order for protection;
(G) Operation of a vehicle under the influence of an intoxicant;
(H) Negligent homicide; or
(I) Any other crime of violence; or
(2) One or more of the following apply:
(A) The defendant has a history of non-appearance in the last twenty-four months;
(B) The defendant has at least one prior conviction for a misdemeanor crime of violence or felony crime of violence within the last ten years;
(C) The defendant was pending trial or sentencing at the time of arrest;
(D) The defendant was on probation, parole, or conditional release at the time of arrest;
(E) The defendant is also concurrently charged with a violent petty misdemeanor, a violent misdemeanor, or any felony offense arising from the same or separate incident; or

(F) The defendant presents a risk of danger to any other person or to the community.

(c) If any of the exceptions in subsection (b) apply, bail may be set in a reasonable amount. If the defendant is unable to post the amount of bail, the defendant shall be entitled to a prompt hearing under section 804-7.5. If the defendant is unable to post bail in the amount of $99 or less, the director of public safety may release the defendant."

SECTION 3. Section 804-3, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is amended by amending subsections (a) through (c) to read as follows:

"(a) For purposes of this section[—"serious crime"], "serious crime" means murder or attempted murder in the first degree, murder or attempted murder in the second degree, [or] a class A [or B] felony, [except forgery in the first degree and failing to render aid under section 291C-12, and "bail"] or a class B or C felony involving violence or threat of violence to any person.
"Bail" includes release on one's own recognizance, supervised release, and conditional release.

(b) Any person charged with a criminal offense shall be bailable by sufficient sureties; provided that bail may be denied where the charge is for a serious crime, and there shall be a rebuttable presumption that a person charged with a criminal offense, other than a serious crime, shall be released or admitted to bail under the least restrictive conditions required to ensure the person's appearance and to protect the public, unless the prosecution demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that:

1. There is a serious risk that the person will flee;
2. There is a serious risk that the person will obstruct or attempt to obstruct justice, or therefore, injure, or intimidate, or attempt to thereafter, injure, or intimidate, a prospective witness or juror;
3. There is a serious risk that the person poses a danger to any person or the community; or
4. There is a serious risk that the person will engage in illegal activity.
If the prosecution demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that one or more of the foregoing serious risks exist, the person shall be detained if the court finds that no condition or combination of conditions is sufficient to reasonably eliminate, reduce, or mitigate the risks presented.

(c) Under subsection (b)(1) a rebuttable presumption arises that there is a serious risk that the person will flee or will not appear as directed by the court where the person is charged with a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment for life with or without possibility of parole. For purposes of subsection (b)(3) and (4) a rebuttable presumption arises that the person poses a serious danger to any person or community or will engage in illegal activity where the court determines that:

(1) The defendant has been previously convicted of a serious crime involving violence or a threat of violence against a person within the ten-year period preceding the date of the charge against the defendant;

(2) The defendant is [already on bail—on] pending trial or sentencing for a felony charge involving violence or a threat of violence against a person; or
(3) The defendant is on probation or parole for a serious crime involving violence or a threat of violence to a person."

PART III

SECTION 4. (a) The judicial council established pursuant to section 601-4, Hawaii Revised Statutes, shall appoint a committee to review the Hawaii penal code and recommend to the legislature revisions to the code that the committee concludes are fair and proportionate to the crime committed, with particular attention to:

(1) Whether mandatory sentencing provisions, particularly those for repeat offenders, should remain incorporated in the Hawaii penal code;

(2) Whether certain drug offenses should be decriminalized; and

(3) Additional sentencing options and alternatives that the committee concludes will aid in the enforcement of the Hawaii penal code.
