A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO EMERGENCY FOOD MANAGEMENT.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

SECTION 1. The legislature finds that during times of economic crisis, natural disasters, or other emergencies the number of Hawaii residents and families who experience food insecurity increases dramatically. Recent natural disasters like hurricanes, flooding, tsunami, and volcanic eruptions, as well as health and economic crises, including the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic and subsequent government mandated shutdowns, have forced people out of their homes, disrupted the economy, and upset supply chains.

The legislature finds that local charitable food organizations, including food banks, soup kitchens, shelters, and food rescue operations, are critical parts of the food safety net during times of crisis. The fallout from natural disasters and similar crises place insurmountable pressure on these organizations, which are often called upon by local authorities to respond to the increased demand on limited budgets. At least sixteen other states provide some type of government funding support for charitable food organizations.

The legislature also recognizes that during times of crisis, local food producers, including farmers, ranchers, fishers, and others, can be negatively impacted. Disruptions to supply chains can result in food spoiling before reaching its intended destination. Work interruptions, whether by government orders, pandemics, or other disasters, can also adversely affect food producers' ability to bring their products to market.

Charitable food operations can offer a dual solution by not only ensuring families in need have access to enough food to sustain their household, but also by operating as an economic stimulus by purchasing food directly from local Hawaii food businesses. The legislature finds that there is a need to connect community feeding and local food production to emergency funding solutions.

The purpose of this Act is to create the Hawaii emergency food assistance program and, upon an emergency proclamation from the governor, require that moneys be appropriated to the program to fund state food banks to purchase, store, and transport food grown or produced in Hawaii to local communities for distribution. This program will serve the State's food needs during an emergency, provide local food producers with a market to support those needs, and keep moneys within the State to boost the local economy.

SECTION 2. Chapter 127A, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is amended by adding two new sections to be appropriately designated and to read as follows:

"§127A-A Hawaii emergency food assistance program. (a)"
